

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A space-saving technique for ports used in communication between electronic devices.

The technique utilizes a common connector structure between adjacent ports to reduce spacing between the adjacent ports. Accordingly, the reduced space requirements may translate to reduced dimensions for the electronic device.

5

